

Proactive Management and Planning Process That Improves Availability and Guarantees Delivery

“It is not the strongest species that survive, nor the most intelligent, but the ones who are most responsive to change.” Charles Darwin (Naturalist)

With the construction industry facing uncertain times, it is sometimes difficult to predict the level and timing of responses that will be required from bid departments. One easy solution is to simply outsource part of the work when needed.

For many, our primary resource is sometimes just being there when needed.

The Benefits of Flexible Resourcing

- Managed teams available on a quoted or pre-booked basis to cover emergencies, peaks in workload, holidays, sickness, training, where overload is creating poor morale, stress, errors or staff migration.
- Investment free resources available to help you grow without the: set up, management, training, equipment and software costs (or the liability that permanent employment creates).
- Managed and coordinated bill splitting and sharing.

A Few of the Methods We Use

- Dedicated measurement teams that are managed, resourced and trained with systems to meet response times.
- Time management systems to plan, monitor and control production.
- High ratio of senior estimators to ensure issues are dealt with promptly and effectively.
- Wide range of software systems to accommodate bespoke requirements.
